The Church Militant.

The Military Service Bill will become law within the next few days. It has progressed rapidly through the House of Commons in spite of the thinly-veiled of having supplied from amongst number a goodly contingent of men sighting forces, and, in the second ing upon the suggestions in the Italian Press that the capitulation of Montenegro was the result of a long-matured intrigue between Montenegrin Court circles and dignified or a generous line of argument of montenegrin court circles and dignified or a generous line of argument by which to excuse the Italian policy of inaction; nor, as the event proves, was it just. We learn to-day that the terms of pace offered by Austria-Hungary have been broken off, and fighting has been resumed on all the fronts. King Nicholas and his sons are staring in Montenegro to corganise the last stand of their troops. The history of recent events in Montenegro still remains obscure in some particulars, but we are now in a position to gauge their probable sequence. That there existed a Court party in favour of making terms and court party in favour of making terms. Court party in favour of making terms which ease. It is equally certain that the bulk of the people held to their century-old tradition of refusing to admit defeat. We may assume that the opposing views of the people and the Court clique were reconciled by the terms imposed by Austria-Hungary. The enemy, it would seem, have defeated their purpose by their exorbitant conditions. It will be their exorbitant conditions of some of the coclest courage and highest sacrifice in this war has been shown by chaplains, Protestant and Roman shown b

The Committee stage of the Military Service Bill was resumed. Good progress was made, and a large number of proposed new clauses was quickly got out of the way. The greater number was ruled out of order. When the schedules were reached there arose a discussion on the position of those Territorials who have enlisted for home service only; these men are not excluded from the Bill. Mr. Radford sought to have them exempted, to which the Government would not agree; but Mr. Tennant said that he would exempt Territorials who, in the opinion of the Army Council, were considered unsuitable for foreign service. Mr. Radford's amendment was defeated by 259 to 27, and the Government's amendment was adopted. Colonel Yate moved the omission of the paragraph exempting the clergy from com-pulsion, and an interesting debate ensued. The fact of reverend gentlemen being puision, and an interesting debate ensued. The fact of reverend gentlemen being exempted seemed to be particularly obnoxious to those members, such as been trying to get everybody else left out, and Sir A. Mr. Dillon described as indecent the action of clergy who advocated compulsion, and objected to it in their own case.

Mr. Watter Long pointed out the special difficulty in the case of the clergy, and stated that in many cases great difficulty had been experienced in providing curates for the Church of England.

The amendment was by leave withdrawn.

An amendment by Mr. Ginnell exempting members of teaching Orders and students was negatived.

He inferred from the questions that the noble viscount was not quite satisfied as to the people with whom the questions that the flower ment dealt, or as to those whom they allowed to carry on business in this country. The questions suggested the idea that the Government themselves dealt with enemy aliens, that they granted licences to such aliens, and that they deal with fruss or companies who themselves dealt with enemy aliens. The noble lord desired, no doubt, to chief this mass of information from the Government with the object of strengthening the case for legislation. The mobilisation of such a list would be a clossal task, and would require, not one volume, but a series of volumes, of considerable bulk. At this moment he should heritate to impose such a task upon the departments concerned. SPORTING NEWS.

CHANTICLEER'S NOTES. (SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)
GATWICK, TRURSDAY NIGHT.
Although we are unlikely to witness at Gatwick this week a repetition of the unwieldy fields which rendered the first January fixture so memorable, a great number of horses are reported to be under orders. Therefore, the class of the animals engaged being, in the reported to be under orders. Therefore, the class of the animals engaged being, in the majority of the races, quite good, sport of a thoroughly entertaining character can be anticipated with every confidence. Each of the solling events has attracted an unusually good lot of platers. My selections are:

Burstow Steeplechase—Usury.
Coulsdon Hurdle—Rind Hockey.
Surrey Steeplechase—Rey Barker.
Double Handicap Hurdle—Responsible.
Stoward's Steeplechase-Abakur.
Four Years' Old Hurdle—Michigan.
